$100,000 Already Raised in Hotel Campaign

OPTIMISM REIGNS AS SUBSCRIPTIONS CONTINUE STRONG

ATTAINMENT OF 25 PERCENT MARK ADDS IMPETUS TO DRIVE.

ALL TEAMS ON JOB

Solicitors Report Response on Part of All—Campaign in Full Sway Tomorrow.

One-fourth of the entire amount to be raised in the hotel campaign has been raised up to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Totals available at the Chamber of Commerce were a few hundred dollars under $100,000.

Although Campaign Chairman W. F. McVicar is gaining confidence that the $400,000 will be subscribed by the end of the week, the urgency of the 50 workers not to relax their efforts. He requests increased speed tomorrow.

More interest is being shown in the campaign than was at first predicted. Business and professional men, women and all others approached have responded willingly to liberal subscriptions. All seem to realize the dire need of putting the project over the top, if the city is to be further favored by the General Motors corporation, workers say.

Lakota Teams Enthusiastic

Captains of the Lakota club teams have practically every member of their squads in action and are working with enthusiasm. It is the desire to make the Lakota club 100 percent in the campaign.

The industrial committee swung into the field today and big returns were expected when they checked up at headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce at the close of the day.

Each person solicited is asked to sign the following card:

"The stock subscription of the Janesville Hotel campaign having been opened by the organizers, we, the undersigned, do hereby subscribe for the number of shares of the preferred capital stock of the Janesville Hotel company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of Wisconsin, and agree to pay therefor the amount set opposite our names. (This subscription may be made in installments and will be valid unless and until at least 50 percent of the authorized capital of said company is subscribed.)

"My subscriptions are made as of the 6th day of January 1920, and are payable in installments upon call of the directors, and subscriptions may be made upon separate cards and brought together by the organizers, when all subscriptions shall have the same force and effect as those made at one time and under one subscription heading."

OLD CHAPEL, FAMOUS N. Y. LANDMARK, GIVES WAY TO NEW BUILDING

(By Associated Press.)

Committee counsel began presentation of evidence after Chairman Martin had denied an application by Morris Hillquit, chief counsel for the defense, to introduce certain "admissions of fact" which he said would serve to clear the issues and save calling of a large array of witnesses.

Mr. Stanchfield obtained from Gerber a copy of the constitution of the party, to show that "any person residing in the United States of 13 years old and upwards, without discrimination on account of race, sex, color or creed, and who has severed connection with all other political parties" shall be eligible to membership.

The constitution set forth that the consent of the party organization, state or local, is necessary for any member of the party to hold public office.

Any socialist voting for any appropriation for military or naval purposes shall be expelled from the party, according to the constitution. The instrument further prescribed that socialists elected to legislative bodies should vote as a unit.

Expulsion from the party is the penalty provided for voting as an independent for public office who has not been endorsed or recommended by the party organization.

Adult Suffrage Required

Mr. Stanchfield read provisions calling for a vote of 21 years, regardless of sex, residential or educational qualifications, and enfranchisement of those declaring their intention to become citizens after one year's residence.

The application of Samuel A. DeWitt and two other citizens who had been introduced as exhibitors.

Describes Application Cards

The card bore on one side the flaming torch, which is the socialist emblem, as well as the declaration by the applicant that he recognized the necessity of organization in the struggle against the "capitalist class" and the workers' movement.

Cross examination of Gerber by Mr. Hillquit was to bring out that the socialist party had been in force for 12 to 21 years.

Francis M. Hugo, secretary of state, followed Gerber on the stand. Mr. Hugo said the socialist members had shown no hesitation in taking their oaths.

RAILROADS POINT TO HEAVY EXPENSE OF RAISING TRACKS

FINANCIAL DRAIN WOULD BE ENORMOUS RAIL ATTORNEYS SAY AT HEARING.

CITIZENS ARE FIRM

Suggestion to Use North Franklin Street Would Not Correct Hazard of Crossings.

Marked by declarations of railroad officials, the elimination of grade crossings in this city is practically impossible from a financial standpoint and insistence by the citizens committee that some remedy must be found to eliminate the danger, especially at Academy street and Five Points, the hearing before the state railroad commission at the city hall yesterday afternoon was spirited throughout.

For four hours, from two o'clock until four, a group of representing citizens of the First and Fifth wards, offered evidence to the commission, which was held in the city hall, before the railroad attorneys, who were sought to show that the plans suggested were impracticable.

The hearing took place before John S. Allen, state railroad commissioner. While the meeting, which was held in the crowded assembly room, was merely for the expression of public sentiment and the making of the date, as near as possible, names of any killed or injured, facts of the accident are stated. Do not surmise. State actual cases of your own knowledge. Information should be mailed to M. G. Hedges, 11 West Milwaukee street, Janesville.

MODERN JAIL PROVES POPULAR HOME FOR SCOT FREE NATIVES

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Jan. 22.—Officers of the United States marine corps, who have charge of the penitentiary here, have had to issue special orders to keep the natives from breaking into their model jail.

Recently a check roll call of prisoners showed an excess of five over the number regularly committed by the law. Investigation showed that the five had been in the jail for some time, lured by the prospect of three good meals a day and a comfortable cell in which to sleep. Now, however, the prisoners working outside the walls is carefully counted before it is admitted.

NEW ATTEMPTS TO SAVE PASSENGERS PROVE FUTILE

DISABLED TRANSPORT STILL FLOUNDERING IN HEAVY SEAS.

TOWED TO PORT

O. K. Is Message Received from Ship; Steamers Stand by.

(By Associated Press.)
Halifax, N. S., Jan. 22.—Eight lives were lost when the transport Northern Pacific overturned yesterday in an attempt to transfer passengers from the disabled transport Powhatan, after being wrecked by the Powhatan, which had arrived here this morning.

The Bardie's officers said this was based on a wireless message received while on the way to Halifax after having failed in an attempt to take the disabled transport in tow. A wireless message from Captain Randall of the Powhatan, dated Jan. 20, said he had started for Halifax in tow of the Canadian government steamer, but that there was no change in the condition of the ship and that a transfer of passengers would not be attempted unless everything is absolutely favorable.

Rescue Attempts Aflie

Three boats were sent from the Northern Pacific toward the Powhatan, but were recalled because the seas were too heavy to transfer passengers from the disabled steamer. One of the boats failed to return and the other two were reported as being lost.

O. K. Is Report

New York, Jan. 22.—A wireless message received here early today said that the army transport Powhatan, disabled in a collision with the south of Halifax was "O. K." at 8:03 o'clock last night. The message said the weather is moderating. The steamer West Comet and the lady Laurier were standing by, the message stated.

Later messages said that the disabled steamer had been standing by the Powhatan, was "leaky" and would be forced to return to port.

The coast guard cutter Ossipee was reported to be nearing the Powhatan's position.

ARGUES IN FAVOR OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

That church schools are not as successful as other schools because priests do not as a rule possess the necessary training in pedagogy is the opinion expressed by J. T. Hooper, superintendent of the State Normal school for the blind, in his address at Milwaukee yesterday at a meeting of the diocesan council of the Episcopal church and the Milwaukee branch of the women's auxiliary.

The clergy and laymen of the Milwaukee dioceses of the Episcopal church are holding their seventy-third annual convention at All Saints cathedral.

"Church schools are in a bad way, because parish priests have had no training in pedagogy," said Mr. Hooper. "We have laws that prevent untrained people from teaching in public schools. If a city superintendent called a body of teachers together and attempted to train that body for its work and if he knew no more about teaching than the ordinary priest does, he would meet with no better success than would that priest."

"We admit that the great work of the church is with the children, yet we fail to prepare our priests in methods of handling children when we prepare him for priesthood."

A conference will be held in Racine July 8 to 16, when a course of study will be outlined and further development along church lines will be suggested.

According to a report Wednesday afternoon, Sunday school attendance of Episcopal churches throughout the country had dropped off several thousands during the last few years and several hundred in the Milwaukee diocese.

Rev. Henry Willmann was one of the two rural deans elected. The conference was to close this afternoon.

LEWIS TO PREACH AT SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army is having a series of revival meetings that will continue for several weeks. There will be different speakers as time goes on.

MEN'S OPEN FORUM
HOLDS DISCUSSION

The subject of "Religious Reconstruction" was discussed at the meeting of the Men's Open forum held at the Baptist church last evening with W. E. Clinton as leader. Rev. J. A. Melrose took up the question from the standpoint of the church. The motive of love had replaced the old idea of hell fire, he argued, and religion was the great cement of modern society. He thought the most damning thing today was denominational differences.

Judge C. D. Rosa, Beloit, took up the question from the standpoint of the layman and answered the criticism that the church was not functioning along broad lines. He outlined the great task of the church, to project itself into society so that organizations should be planned on the basis of strict justice to all.

J. K. Arnt discussed the question from the standpoint of the home. He deplored hasty marriages and thought there should be instruction in the duties of family life.

A women's quartette consisting of Margaret McCulloch, Lorene Bowerman, Louise Bennett, and Mrs. Alice Thomas sang. Virginia Jones gave a reading. Supper was served at 6:30 o'clock by the women of the church.

After
Inventory Sale
OF WINTER GOODS.That Many People Will be Lucky to Buy at Present-Level Prices

Have you ever stopped to think how wonderful it would be to be able to come and pick from a store-full of goods AT LAST YEAR'S PRICES?

Every time the hands of the clock go around, some kind of goods goes up in price, and there is no sign anywhere in sight now, that the price-advance clock will stop running.

Up and always upward, prices continue to climb. Higher wages for labor and shorter hours of work make everything cost vastly more than it ever cost before.

Every month that you wait to buy goods that you know you are going to need, means that you will pay much higher prices, or have to accept greatly inferior quality. But now our After Inventory Sale

Brings Large, Though Temporary, Good Fortune!

Even with most prices going up and many kinds of goods actually scarce, we are following our usual habit of clearing up stocks in January, and we have made sharp price-cuts on goods that you will want; while, at the same time, we offer numberless last chances to secure other highly desirable goods AT PRESENT-LEVEL PRICES, and thus avoid paying the much higher prices that these same goods will command a few weeks later on.

There Are Clever Dresses

One would not think, off hand, that navy blue could be done quite so cleverly as in these first new dresses—navy blue, you know, is quite the thing in this Spring's early arrivals.

There is a short sleeve—especially for the miss—and it certainly contributes to the element of cleverness. However, three-quarter length sleeves and long sleeves are shown with excellent effect.

The first showing are Taffetas, Satins, Tricolettes, Georgettes and combinations of Tricolette and Foulard. Some darling Georgette dresses for informal affairs, too.

Prices, of course, are moderate, $35.00, $45.00, $49.50 and $55.00.

THE NATURAL GAS PROBLEM.

In all of the older natural gas fields consumers have been brought sharply to a realization that something must be done to conserve the supplies of the ideal fuel. For years they have had warnings that the reservoirs were nearing exhaustion but, the gas continuing to flow, they did little toward restricting its use. Their skepticism has been overcome and it may be assumed they are in the frame of mind essential to action. At the conference in Washington called by the secretary of the interior, to consider the situation, it was made apparent that wasteful methods of using natural gas are responsible for the shortage. Improved appliances for burning this fuel are the sure way to prevent stoppage of its distribution, was asserted. An enormous increase of price for gas was advocated as the only possible means of inducing people to install new burners that would use less and give service equal to that now enjoyed. The essential thing, then, is a campaign of education through which the people will be instructed in their own interest. There are difficulties in the way of promoting the use of special devices without creating scandal. It should not be impossible to overcome them. The gas conservationist should give thought to how it shall be done.

PROFITING BY EXPERIENCE.

"Charge it up to experience" is the philosophical way in which Americans are wont to reconcile themselves to mistakes, losses and unpleasant happenings in general. The terrible experience that the nation underwent in the epidemic of influenza in the autumn of 1918 will not have been without value if it has served to acquaint the medical profession with methods of checking another outbreak in its incipency.

Influenza has made its appearance in Chicago, with more than 500 new cases reported in a single day. This would occasion alarm, but for belief that the intensive study of the other outbreak cannot have been entirely in vain. If we profited nothing by the first outbreak, there indeed is the outlook dreary.

Fortunately, the United States public health service gives us grounds for our confidence that the new epidemic will be overcome with less difficulty than the latter. We are informed that steps have been taken to localize the disease and that a recurrence of the malady on a large scale probably can be prevented, although influenza is still rather a mystery.

Even if it should succeed in leaping the barriers thrown around it, there can be no doubt that our past experience will help to keep down fatalities.

LET'S FORGET JOHN BARLEYCORN.

Now that John Barleycorn has officially been pronounced dead, the best way for the mourners to assuage their grief is not to let their thoughts dwell on the departed. Prohibition of the liquor traffic has become part of the fundamental national law; it will not be repealed easily or quickly, if at all. One might as well become reconciled to the situation. To fret over the matter, or let one's imagination linger over the matter, is productive of no good. What should be sought is to speed the coming of the time when the nation will be wholly dry and John Barleycorn will have been forgotten.

There are a few states in the Union where prohibition was established many years ago. The young men there have never seen a saloon and hardly know what liquor is. It has no more appeal to them than the Asiatic indigenous have for the occidental world. The state of mind in regard to alcohol which prevails among the younger generation in those old prohibition states will eventually be prevalent throughout the United States.

We might as well cease to mourn John Barleycorn and strive to hasten the coming of forgetfulness.

NO DICTATOR FOR FRANCE.

Georges Clemenceau has been given grounds for complaint against the ingratitude of republics, the Senate and Chamber caucus to select a candidate for the presidency of France having rejected him. But it was a decidedly democratic manifestation and will give wide satisfaction on purely practical grounds. The fact is that the leaders of democratic nations in the war secured a degree of power which it was never intended should be exercised by individuals or groups. They got it as a matter of necessity when their countries were in grave peril. But when hostilities ceased they evinced no disposition to relinquish it. The French presidency is commonly regarded as a political tool, but a strong man under favorable conditions might make it something else. True, not much was to be feared from the beloved "Tiger," whose earthly race is nearly run. But the French lawmakers evidently resolved to take no chances. They refused to nominate Clemenceau for the office and he has withdrawn from the contest. He deserves much at the hands of his countrymen, but their country deserves more. Some others may well ponder the implications of the Clemenceau case.

"Toll me," the other night, said he,
"Just who my Uncle Sam can be?
I've never seen his face at all,
Except that one with hat so tall
The papers print, and long goate,
Why does he never call on me,
Or write to ask me how I am,
If he's my really Uncle Sam?"

And then I said: "From start to end,
Your Uncle Sam's your truest friend—
Except your mother, and maybe
He loves you just as much as she;
He guards you when you sleep at night,
Teaches you what is wrong and right,
And with the wisdom of his rule,
Goes with you every day to school."

"Your Uncle Sam has said that you
Shall work at what you like to do,
Shall live your life, and no one here
With you shall dare to interfere,
So long as you his laws obey
And play the man, let come what may,
It is your Uncle Sam, in truth,
Who gives you all the joys of youth."

"He's builded roads and bridged the streams
That you may realize your dreams;
The doors of schools are opened wide
For every boy to step inside,
And learn from him the many things
Which would be the boast of kings;
Now everywhere his teachers wait
His boys and girls to educate."

"The starry flag which flies above
Is but a symbol of his love.
You'll never see his kindly face,
Or of his footsteps and one trace,
But every good shall come to you,
If unto Uncle Sam you're true,
Serve him in every way you can,
And you shall be a happy man."

Backward Glances

FORTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 22, 1880.—This afternoon Rev. J. W. Sanderson of the Presbyterian church presented his formal resignation as pastor. He will enter state church work. The condition of Mr. Robbins remains the same, he being fully conscious. The fact that he is not worse gives some hope for his recovery.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 22, 1890.—Sherman Roberts, a young man of this city, was instantly killed in Beloit this morning about 11 o'clock when he was run over by a freight train and his body cut completely in two. His stop-farther resides in this city, where his remains were brought. "The Home," a monthly journal, is being published in this city, the publishers residing near River Park.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 22, 1910.—William H. Gooden has written an interesting letter from the Philippines to his parents in this city, in which he states that he intends to return home in a short time. He is in the military band there and has had many interesting experiences. A drunken man entered the home of Mrs. William B. Harvey last night and she spent an hour finding a policeman to get him out.

TEN YEARS AGO

Jan. 22, 1910.—Mrs. Agnes Berri, aged 55, was found dead in her home on Center street this morning by the mail carrier. She had been dead a week, according to the doctors, but no signs of violence were found on her person and no foul play is suspected.—Thousands of people saw the comet which appeared in the sky last night soon after sunset.

Woman and Her Vote

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, Jan. 22.—"You can take a man out and buy him a cigar, and find out how he'll vote," complains a politician, "but you cannot take a woman, what can you do?"

Cataloguing the woman vote is the despair of not only the political aspirant of advance information, but of politicians all over the country. All past attempts to classify the woman's vote have failed. Women have changed their minds after being supposedly won over by one party. Others have remained non-committal to degree altogether, exasperating to politicians interested in their welfare and their votes. So uncertain is the trend of the woman's vote that the parties begin to think that they will have to play up to the women and then wait until the votes are counted to see the result.

The anxiety of the parties is readily understood when you consider that some 17,000,000 women now have the right of presidential suffrage. The American Expeditionary Force. And these 17,000,000 women may turn Texas republican, Massachusetts democratic, and vote for all the political bosses white by November. For the woman refuse to be bossed.

Ebberly Doesn't Go

Bibbery as an aid to obtaining a woman's vote has proved to be a boomerang that knocks the candidate's prosperity and the respectability of woman and all her friends and all their friends are concerned. The vote is a sacred institution, she indignantly declares, and she will not come to it with a tainted conscience. This sentiment, attached to so matter-of-fact and earthly an institution as the voting privilege, may seem a trifling sophistry. Nevertheless, the creed of this sort becomes the slogan of several million women it is bound to have some effect. The effect of the woman's vote in the United States has been a higher caliber of candidates for office.

Conferring political favors also is in the woman's mind. As shown in every election in which they have participated. In Norway, progressives lamented the fact that they were the main advocates of suffrage, and then when the women got the vote they used it to put the progressives out of power by voting for conservatives.

Similar instances have occurred in this country, where women have been appointed to committees and offices with the intention of using their votes and those of their friends and followers would thereby be assured for a certain political party.

Take Voting Seriously

A large percentage of women, it is generally conceded, take the matter of voting seriously. Many of them are unused to political machinery, and many are not well posted on affairs of state, but they do not intend to go to a ball or box without first finding out exactly what it is all about. This, according to women's committees of democratic and republican parties, is the attitude of women in general toward the coming election.

These committees laugh at the suggestion that the woman's vote will merely double the men's. "Some women have fulfilled the prediction that women would vote like their husbands," they tell you, "but far more have voted according to their own ideas." This was illustrated in New York recently, where for the first time that state elected republican candidates for office with the women voting possible to gauge the effect of women voters on a state election, as ordinarily their ballots are the same as those of the men. But in cases where the hard trick has dominated for years, and suddenly another party comes into power with women voting, there is no difficulty in locating the cause. In Illinois, women's ballots have in some elections been marked so that the effect of their votes could not be studied.

Take Precedent Part

Wherever way the majority of women may vote, women are taking a precedent that will be followed in the coming election. The women's republican committee boasts of the fact that on the day after South Dakota ratified the suffrage amendment the republican state committee convened and named Mrs. John Pyle for presidential elector. Two women have already been elected to the republican convention, and others are being named. In the meantime, the women are working harder than ever to get the beleaguered governors of non-suffrage states to carry up extra legislative sessions, so that the amendment may be ratified in time for the election. Twenty-five states have now ratified the amendment—Wyoming, Idaho, and New Mexico—are expected to do so at special sessions arranged for January and February. Eight other states will be sure to ratify, if the woman's party claims, if the governors would call the legislatures into session.

In order for women of non-suffrage states to be eligible to vote this November, it will be necessary for the amendment to be carried through by a majority of these women to vote at presidential primaries, they will have to be enfranchised by February. As both democratic and republican parties are anxious to enlist more women, pressure is being exerted to get the governors to gather together their lawmakers and settle the question.

The Roll-Over
By E. D. Angell,
Inventor of Cage Ball

"So you would like to do some-thing, a fine time for a job after school," she said. "When I was a girl we had sleighing parties all winter long."

The girls thought over grandmother's suggestion and decided to give an up-to-date, old-fashioned sleighing party. First they went to the lumber yard and hired a big sleigh with seats along both sides. The lively man said they could have two teams of horses.

Everybody was warned to bundle up in the warmest dress to be found, all met at one place and piled into the waiting sleigh. The harness was covered with sleigh bells to the ringing of the bells and sleigh song of the girls attracted the attention of everyone.

They rode into the country and back, and just a minute before they were to start they were deposited, a bevy of rosy cheeked girls, on Mable Lane's doorstep. Mable's mother received them and served them with hot cocoa, fresh doughnuts, and juicy apples. The girls said that their sleigh ride was the best sport of the whole year.

A HAY RACK RIDE
Girls in warmer climates where there is no snow, will find it fun to sled. They all wear broad brimmed hats and gingham aprons to look like farmerettes, and one or two are dressed in overalls to look like farmer boys. The girls plan refreshments to suit the time and place. A "wicker" is always fun, if you can get the hay rack ride. Do not miss a sleigh ride this winter, you girls in the North, and don't forget the fun of a hay rack ride, you girls of the South—you'll go down in the history of girlhood as a

Grandmother looked out of the window at the heavily fallen snow. "It's a fine time for a job after school," she said. "When I was a girl we had sleighing parties all winter long."

The girls thought over grandmother's suggestion and decided to give an up-to-date, old-fashioned sleighing party. First they went to the lumber yard and hired a big sleigh with seats along both sides. The lively man said they could have two teams of horses.

Everybody was warned to bundle up in the warmest dress to be found, all met at one place and piled into the waiting sleigh. The harness was covered with sleigh bells to the ringing of the bells and sleigh song of the girls attracted the attention of everyone.

They rode into the country and back, and just a minute before they were to start they were deposited, a bevy of rosy cheeked girls, on Mable Lane's doorstep. Mable's mother received them and served them with hot cocoa, fresh doughnuts, and juicy apples. The girls said that their sleigh ride was the best sport of the whole year.

A HAY RACK RIDE
Girls in warmer climates where there is no snow, will find it fun to sled. They all wear broad brimmed hats and gingham aprons to look like farmerettes, and one or two are dressed in overalls to look like farmer boys. The girls plan refreshments to suit the time and place. A "wicker" is always fun, if you can get the hay rack ride. Do not miss a sleigh ride this winter, you girls in the North, and don't forget the fun of a hay rack ride, you girls of the South—you'll go down in the history of girlhood as a

ROSE E. MOULTON

Pilgrim's Progress in Society

It would be fair to warn the beginner to refrain from any discussion of automobiles in a society, such as is affected by Luella and myself. Now the fact is that Luella and I own and operate an automobile. The fact is that Luella and I both have incomes aside from our $5,000 a year, I from my wages, she from her salary. We are both $300 a year, and Luella from an old estate, somewhere in Virginia, which includes a cranberry swamp. Some of the other members of the society own automobiles, but many do not. Each faction envies the other.

There is a great middle class in our midst. These people own automobiles and yet they do not, if we may be permitted a Samuel Johnson paradox.

For instance, Mr. Jerome Bellington Smith usually opens the evening's festivities by stating they had to come to the party in the trolley because their car is being repaired. That car, which was a friend for surgical operations. It has had everything taken out of it except its reputation. Nobody has ever seen it, but it is the best car in the town. Mr. Smith's car exists only in his mind, but I pass this information on for what it is worth. Mr. Frisby is by no means a cutting committee, if I must use that expression.

The trouble with Mr. and Mrs. Anson Stuyvesant Purdy's automobile is that the Purdy children are motor-freaks, and they always are using the car when their parents want to come to a party or meeting. No matter if it is midnight and raining cats and dogs, the "children have the car out." Luella has often said she should have the Purdy's car, but she would never have her children skidding around in the car at all times of night, but Luella is a trusting soul. She says if it doesn't worry her, Purdy's it shouldn't worry us. Mr. Wilton Chelmsfordley Brown always says that he expected to bring his car but his business was so busy he borrowed it to go to Red Bank, N. J., to see a dying relative.

So beginners in our set are on thin ice when they mention motor cars. It has caused many to become so subordinated that they have drifted off down stream under the lee and have never been heard of again.

SHIP NEWS.

S. S. Orientiana arrived at quarantine this morning from Europe. The passenger list was as follows:

27 writers returning from Russia to tell us the truth about the Soviet government.

112 occult mediums from India with new white magic, crystal globes and tambourines.

75 eminent European financiers looking for American loans to save the world.

234 actors, actresses and actor-ettes, jugglers and ventriloquists come to elevate vaudeville and the legitimate stage.

307 original members of the czar's imperial court ballet.

19 famous English novelists, 27 poets and a few minor poets.

A couple of regular Americans who had to go abroad on business and are glad to get back.

"To effectively prohibit" is the language of the supreme court decision. Apparently willing to let the country split its infinitives, if not its bottles of beer.

All bottles are non-refillable now.

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information, may write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. Is it true that Premier Lloyd-George was extremely unpopular in Great Britain at one time? W. C. A.

A. The Boer war made Lloyd-George the most unpopular man in Great Britain, for he warmly championed the cause of the Boers. Edmund Burke, who espoused the cause of the American colonists, the premier was bitterly attacked by the British press for his pro-British government in fighting the Boers. After the close of the war, Lloyd-George's reputation rose rapidly, until in 1908 he was made chancellor of the exchequer. With the fall of the Asquith cabinet during the World War, Lloyd-George became premier.

Q. How many states have a "mothers' pension law"? F. H. G.

A. Thirty-eight states have made some provision for the granting of pensions to worthy mothers.

Q. Is it necessary for a disabled soldier to make application to the War Department for his pension money due him under the Sweet amendment? I. M. C.

A. All back money due disabled soldiers and their families must be applied for by the soldier or his family to the War risk insurance act, increasing the compensation of disabled soldiers, will be sent out without delay, the money being made for such compensation.

Q. If a widow of a soldier of the World War marries, does the compensation to her children cease? R. M. W.

A. The government compensation granted to a widow ceases at the date of her remarriage, but the compensation paid to the children will continue.

Q. What governmental bureau redeems mutilated paper bills? E. Y. A.

A. Mutilated currency which you wish redeemed should be sent to the secretary of the treasury. Redemption division.

Q. May a second lieutenant, infantry reserve corps, resign his commission at this time? T. E. T.

A. A man may resign his commission to the War department, but it is optional with the secretary of war whether or not the resignation will be accepted.

COAL AT $25 A TON
London, Eng.—If control on exportation of coal is maintained, prices in England would rise to levels at which few had dreamed, according to Sir A. Geddes. Household coal would cost at least $25 a ton, and the price of gas would be reduced to sixpence. He declared without hesitation that if reduction were made suddenly throughout the country, the country would be in a state of chaos, if we went back to a ten-hour day the dislocation would be so extraordinary, that the whole fabric would collapse.

Voice of the People

To the Editor:

The Janesville street car company gives you "drama service sometimes"—the coldest and most stormy days when they are needed the most is when you have to wait. At times you may stand on the corner 20 or 25 minutes on coldest days waiting for a car and then have to walk. I understand there is a car supposed to take Samson employees out to work at 4:30 p. m., and I boarded said car a few days ago and was told they were not going. At that day—it was too cold and stormy. That car was labeled "Cemeteries and dopest"—good thing to advertise, die or get out of town. It would at least run on their 20-minute schedule so people could depend on them they would get plenty of patronage.

Hoping for the better.

ATHENA CLASS REVIEWS BELOIT WRITER'S BOOK

Book reviews made up the program of the Athena class which met yesterday afternoon at the library, with Mrs. H. J. Faust in charge of the topic. Mrs. E. Loomis gave a review of "The Iron City," written by Prof. M. J. Hedges, Beloit college. This she characterized as a thinly veiled resume of the affairs of Beloit, and of the college, especially in relation to the laboring people. "Far Away and Long Ago," a story of South American life, was reviewed by Mrs. Cora Dickinson. Mrs. L. G. Catchpole gave delightful extracts from "The Little Visitor," written by Daisy Ashford. Roll call was answered by quotations in regard to books.

ACCOUNTING CLASS TO BEGIN COURSE

Thirty-four men and women, ex-service men and tuition students, will begin a three months course in accounting this evening at high school. When a certified accountant will instruct the class in groups.

V. E. Thain, the instructor, from the extension department of the university, has all the proper material at hand so that the class can actually get into the work of the course this evening.

Classes will be in session weekly Thursday evenings, from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. While this course is an elementary accounting, advanced work will be taken up when this course is completed.

George Landgraf, supervisor of vocational instruction under the bonus law, met ex-soldiers last evening, who wish to take up other work besides accounting.

He is anxious to get in touch with ex-service men, who are not only entitled to the state aid, but also the federal. He is anxious to get in touch with them and to see that they are entitled to both aids. Mr. Landgraf said, and they consequently have not availed themselves of obtaining the aid. J. M. Dorn, superintendent of the vocational school, will give advice regarding the federal or state aid if those who are interested will call at the vocational school.

HE FIDDED HIS WAY INTO TROUBLE

Ralph Pagan, violinist in the Meyer theater orchestra, for the past two months, was arrested on a charge of wife desertion by Officer Con. O'Leary after he had looked up his fiddle at the end of the second show last evening. He spent the night at the police station awaiting the arrival of a deputy sheriff from Grand Rapids, who is wanted. He will probably be taken there tonight.

"My wife asked me if I were going to keep on fiddling when I left Grand Rapids," he said in his cell today. "I told her I was, so she said she was through with me, so I thought I'd better get out of there. I have written to her several times. My arrest was a big surprise."

Chief Morley received word last night from the deputy sheriff from Grand Rapids to take Pagan into custody. They have one child.

He spent nine months with the British forces at Royal Victoria hospital in England, having charge of six wards containing cases of fractures and bone work. He later spent several months in London treating venereal cases.

Dr. Koch is a graduate of the local high school, class of 1910. He was graduated from the state university in 1913 and from the medical college three years later. He spent a year as interne in St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, and Gary Steel Mill hospital.

SAMSON EMPLOYEE IS OVERCOME BY GAS

George Renne, Samson employee, is recovering from the effects of partial asphyxiation from coke gas at the tractor plant this morning. The fire department responded to a call for the lungmaster at 7:30 o'clock, but the man had regained consciousness, so the machine was not used on him. The police ambulance was called, but Dr. Koch did not consider his condition serious enough to require his removal to the hospital at that time.

LIMIT NUMBER OF HOSPITAL VISITORS

Because of the overcrowded condition at Mercy hospital, many of the beds being fitted up for patients, Dr. Fred Welch, city health officer, today issued an order that only the immediate families of patients will be permitted to visit them. "Patients and workers must be protected against colds and grippe," he said.

Only a few cases of small pox now exist in the city but there is still need for vigilance in the matter and children will continue to be prohibited from school until vaccinated, he declared.

Letter Postage to Foreign Countries Is Five Cents

Investigations at the postoffice disclosed the fact that letter postage to Syria is 5 cents instead of 25 cents, as stated in the letter written to Janesville friends by Miss Rose Adamany from Ploera, Greece.

Twenty-five centimes is the Syrian expression for 5 cents and it is thought that Miss Adamany must have had that word in mind when she wrote 25 cents. Ordinary letter postage to all foreign countries is 5 cents, it was stated at the office today.

PEACE TREATY WINS IN ROUSING DEBATE

The affirmative side won on the presentation of arguments in favor of the acceptance of the peace treaty formulated at Versailles in a rousing and vigorous debate given at the meeting of the Men's Brotherhood held at the Methodist church last evening.

Dates chosen for the affair, Turner and Rev. Perry Miller were declared the winning team. The judges in the contest, Judge Charles C. Field, Prof. H. M. Faust, Dr. P. Clark, Judge John Gross, and Judge H. L. Maxwell gave a report of four to one in favor of the winning team, and a straw vote taken among the audience showed a vote of 75 to 86 in favor of the same team.

The opposing team was headed by Rev. P. P. Lewis who was assisted by Rev. Webster Miller.

Besides the flights of rhetoric, indulged in by the representatives of the Methodist clergy appearing on the two teams, weighty arguments enlivened with keen witty shafts of humor kept the large audience in a roar of merriment.

The high school girls offered sang a couple of musical selections. Nelson Hines gave two whistling solos.

The supper was served to 125 men and women at the home of Mrs. C. E. Townsend as chairman. The Brotherhood voted to raise money to care for two Armenian children, during the present year.

"Kid looking for you," the clerk called to the cow-puncher. "Are you Mr. Soap's friend?" "The one just down from Dead Cow Creek," asked the boy. "Curly nodded and took the note. This was what he had heard the name Soap, come to Chalky's place soon as you get this. There we will talk over the business."

Curly slipped into the booth, and, undisturbed, went to the third stall. The wait which divided one room from another was of pine boarding and did not reach the ceiling. It was placed against the wall, its attention strained to the utmost. Curly began to catch words and phrases of the next compartment. Billy Whiskers

FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The day after Billy Whiskers was sold to the Higgins he was shut in a small yard to keep him out of mischief. Feeling lonesome, he thought that he would jump the fence and explore a little. He was getting cross-eyed looking through the palings of the fence, which were very close together, so sulking over the fence, landing in a kettle of scalding water that had been left there to cool. When he got out of the kettle the fore-part of his nose was scorched, and the hind, white, but he did not mind that, so after shaking the drops from his eyes and beard, he was as ready to explore as if nothing had happened.

Seeing the kitchen door open, he went up the steps softly and slipped into the kitchen, and sniffing some nice sweet-smelling cakes, which had just been taken out of the oven and placed on the table, he began to eat them. From the floor he could only reach a few, so he mounted a chair, and from that vantage point he began to eat. He was so hungry that he did not care what he ate, and he was so nervous that he did not care who saw him. He was so nervous that he did not care who saw him.

Then he heard voices, and some one said: "Susie, I heard a terrible crash downstairs. You had better run down and see what it was. You may have left the kitchen door open and the cat possibly came in and upset something."

Then he heard voices, and some one said: "Susie, I heard a terrible crash downstairs. You had better run down and see what it was. You may have left the kitchen door open and the cat possibly came in and upset something."

Dinner Stories

"Why Nora," said her mistress, "how nice you look in your new dress and hat. I hope you will meet all your friends this afternoon so that they may see you in your new clothes."

"Me friends, ma'am?" returned Nora. "What'll I be wantin' to see them for? Sure, I don't care to make me friends jealous. It's my enemies I want to meet when I'm dressed up."

"This steak is burnin'," exclaimed Mr. Dulwale. "I must impress on the cook that beef costs too much to be incinerated."

"The steak we have at present is not well educated," said Mrs. Dulwale, "and I would advise you to use the word 'burned,' instead of 'incinerated.' If you see anyone running the risk of ruining her, you should try to make yourself understood."

A Georgia magistrate was perplexed by the
